SHOWCASING OUR HISTORY: LONGFIELD HALL

THE FUTURE OF LONGFIELD HALL

Lambeth Council acquired the Minet Estate, including the hall, in 1968 after the death of Susan Minet.

The hall was Grade II listed by English Heritage in 1979. A volunteer group “Friends of Longfield Hall” was established in the early 1990s to ensure the hall was maintained for community use and in January 2010 became a registered charity. This was renamed Longfield Hall Trust in 2014.

The Nest Pre-School opened at the hall in 1992 and the McAlpine Dance School has been based at the hall since 1993. Both organisations are thriving. Longfield Hall continues to fulfil the purpose envisaged by William Minet with over 700 people using it each week. The airy spaces still provide the local community with a place for receptions, meetings, rehearsals, choirs, churches, dance and fitness classes. The hall is also used regularly for dance and theatre performances, encouraging emerging artists, writers and choreographers.
